

ITD Flagger and Traffic Control Supervisor Certification and Reciprocity Information

The Idaho Transportation Department DOES NOT offer flagger training and certification classes. Contact the Colleges listed below for a schedule of classes and associated fees.

The State of Idaho currently maintains a Flagger Reciprocity Agreement with the State DOT's of Washington, Oregon, and Montana. Certification from those state DOT approved courses allows certified flaggers to cross state lines for employment. A separate Flagger Reciprocity agreement is currently in force between Idaho and the State of Utah.

Idaho maintains a Traffic Control Supervisor (TCS) reciprocity agreement with the State DOT's of Oregon and Montana. Idaho will accept a valid TCS certification from a Washington DOT approved Evergreen Safety Council course. Additional training may be required by any of the states when applying for employment in a state other than which your card was issued.

The Idaho Transportation Department (ITD) currently recognizes Flagger and TCS certification cards when taught in compliance with the Idaho approved courses by ITD approved instructors.
